1. The appeal is for enhancement of claim for compensation for injuries suffered in the accident. The accident took place on 16.02.1992 when the claimant (appellant herein) boarded a vehicle DCM Toyota which was being driven negligently by its driver. He dashed against another vehicle (a tractor-trolley), as a result of which, the claimant suffered multiple injuries. He had a fracture of neck of humerus bone. On 07.06.1993, the Medical Officer examined him and found him suffering from old fracture of neck humerus with stiff shoulder leading to 25% disability for a fracture of his bone and the pain and suffering that he would have suffered. I add an additional amount of ₹10,000/-. He was a police constable in service and perhaps, he had claimed refund of his medical expenses from the government. No bills had been produced at the trial.

2. The award is enhanced by another ₹10,000/- with interest at 7.5%. The liability shall be against the same persons as already found by the Tribunal.

3. The appeal is allowed to the above extent.
